This old cemetery is located across the street from where the old Meeting House stood and opposite the old home of the Lane family. Very few stones were in evidence when the following inscriptions were copied in 1909. It is known however, that the first settler on Quaker hill, Nathan Birdsall, is buried here as are doubtless numerous of his descendants. Numbers of stones were so worn by age and weather that they were not readable and the place was being used as a pasture by foreigners who were occupying the old Lane home. The Meeting House of which I have a picture taken about 1894 had blown down previous to my visit there in 1909

CEMETERY INSCRIPTIONS FROM
CROW BURYING GROUND
AT HAVILAND HOLLOW
NEW YORK

This cemetery came into quite general use after the abandonment of the Quaker one whose inscriptions just precede this one and although the people who inhabit this neighborhood receive their mail through the Post Office at Patterson, New York, part of them live in New Fairfield, Conn., and I was informed that the above cemetery lay also within the bounds of that town.

This cemetery is simply separated by a fence from the Orthodox Quaker burial grounds, transcribed just prior to this one and there are a few people buried in it who were not Quakers, because there is no other place on the Hill where interments may take place.

This place is seldom used now, most burials taking place at Pawling, N. Y. a village about five miles down the Hill. There are many unmarked graves owing to the objections of the early Friends

This cemetery is located on the Taber farm at the north end of Quaker Hill and borders the Connecticut State line. It has been in the possession of the Taber family since 1780. Mr. William Henry Taber whose two wives are buried here is still living at the age of eighty-six, owning the place and expects to be buried in this cemetery and he will be without doubt the last one to be buried there. His children do not approve of it and his third wife, Louise (Frost) Taber is buried near her parents, grand-parents and great-grand parents in the cemetery at Towners, New York.

This burial ground is on what used to be known as the Caldwell Place. It has been owned for many years by William Henry Taber whose old home place adjoins it and to the present generation is known as "The Lower Place"

It borders directly on the Connecticut State Line and up in the woods southwest of the house are a number of field stones used as markers for graves. There is nothing readable on them but the above Mr. Taber who is now eight-six years of age told me whom he remembered as being buried there and the one date given below he had in his diary of some sixty years ago.

- Caldwell,) John Caldwell and his wife Maria, who was Akin,) the daughter of Benjamin Akin
- Caldwell,) Hannah, daughter of John and Maria Caldwell Ashby,) and first wife of William Ashby
- Caldwell,) Sallie C. daughter of John and Maria Cald-Ashby,) well and second wife of William Ashby of Green Haven, New York
- Caldwell, Eliza, daughter of John and Maria Caldwell
- Caldwell, John, son of John and Maria Caldwell.
(This John married Elvira Wakean of Quaker Hill but Mr. Taber could not recall whether she was buried beside her husband or not but he thought it quite likely)

Caldwell, David Caldwell, son of John and Maria, born April 9, 1835
 (Mr. Tabor said that at John and Maria Caldwell moved to this place from Conn. when David was six years old and that there used to be a stone house on the place which is now torn down. The old well is still there but covered up. David married Lethia Gorham but she is not buried there.)

About one mile from the above farm in the town of Sherman, Conn. at the corner of the cross roads leading from Quaker Hill to Merwinsville and from Sherman to Merwinsville, Conn. are the following stones surrounded by tall pine trees and invisible to the wayfarer.

- Allen, Samuel Allen, died Nov. 27, 1837. Age 72 years
- (?) Mary --(?) died July 13, 1862. Age 20 years
- Ferris, John A. son of William F. and Ann Ferris died Dec. 5, 1857. Age 5 years, 4 mos
- Ferris, George, son of William F. and Ann Ferris died Nov. 15, 1855. Age 3 months

(Mr. Tabor told me that Samuel Allen was a bachelor and that Mrs. Ferris was his niece)
